

PROMPT WRITING

How do we write prompts correctly and how do we fix them?

Basic Structure of Prompts

A Golden
Retriever
Dog

---

Who?

holding a tennis ball in its mouth, as
it runs
across

---

Doing
What?

A field of grass.

---

Where?

grass. Drawn in a watercolor paint style

Things to Keep in Mind

Tips and Tricks to help you write better prompts!!

Mood or Emotion

- Help the model by stating the mood or emotional tone you want the image to have
- For example:
  - Eerie and haunting
  - Somber
  - Cheerful and bright

Cheerful

Dark and Eerie

Colorful and Vibrant

Composition

- You can specify from what angle or perspective you want your image to be
- For example:
  - bird's-eye view
  - From the side
  - high/low angle

Bird's-eye view

From the side view

From a low angle

Other General Tips

- Use action verbs: speeding, reflecting, glowing, etc
  - These create a more dynamic and vibrant picture
- Incorporate negative prompts - specify what you don't want in the image
  - Ex. generate an image of a train station, but no people
  - Especially useful for retries
- Get very detailed and specific and use a lot of adjectives
  - An online thesaurus is your best friend!

How to “Retry”

What to do if things go wrong?

Fix it like a Detective: Three steps

01.

Look at what's wrong

Ask: Which part didn't turn out right?

- Does the character look weird?
- Is the setting off?
- Did the AI use the wrong art style?

02.

Add or change a word(s) to fix it

Target what went wrong in the prompt:

It's missing an action → add a verb (jumping, flying, eating)

The setting isn't clear → specify the setting or make it more detailed (a beach, a beach with seashells during the sunset)

Wrong character → Be more specific (an orange cat, a girl with long hair)

03.

Hit Generate Again and then Compare

Generate again and then ask: do I like the new image?

If not, then compare the two images. Figure out what went right and what went wrong? What changes worked? Then try again.
