But Story Version!!

Structure of a Story

Sentence 1: Exposition

- Introduce Character and Setting
- Ex: Olive the octopus lived in a cozy underwater cave and loved collecting shiny seashells.

Your Turn!!

Decide:

- Your Character
 - A daring princess
 - A flying cat
 - A sensitive dragon
- Your Setting
 - A futuristic society
 - A fantasy kingdom
 - The ocean

Then Write Your First Sentence:

Your Character + Where they live + something about them

Sentence 2: Conflict

- Introduces a problem or challenge the character faces
- Ex: One morning, her favorite rainbow shell mysteriously disappeared.

Your Turn!!

Decide:

- What conflict does your character encounter:
 - Lost something precious?
 - Has a dream they want to fulfill?
 - Gets lost or stranded?
 - Encounters something strange?

Then Write Your Second Sentence:

When + Your Character +
what problem/challenge
they encounter

Sentence 3: Rising Action

- The character takes action to solve the conflict
- Ex: Olive searched the reef, questioned the sea turtles, and even peeked inside a sleeping shark's mouth.

Your Turn!!

Write Your Third Sentence:

- What will your character do to solve the conflict? Let them take their first steps

Sentence 4: Climax

- The peak of the story's excitement, usually involves a discovery or sudden turn of events
- Ex: Just as she was about to give up, she spotted a trail of glitter leading into a dark shipwreck.

Your Turn!!

Write Your Fourth Sentence:

- What is the peak of your story? What has the character discovered or done to further resolve the conflict?
- Tip: Hint at some kind of reveal or plot twist

Sentence 5: Falling Action

- The events of the previous sentence continue. The conflict is beginning to resolve
- Ex: She bravely swam inside and discovered a mischievous crab decorating its shell with her treasure.

Your Turn!!

Write Your Fifth Sentence:

- What happens after your climax? How is the character solving the conflict?

Sentence 6: Resolution

- The end of the story, the conflict is resolved, and the aftermath is shown
- Ex: Olive laughed, shared her shell collection with the crab, and they became decorating buddies forever.

Your Turn!!

Write Your Sixth Sentence:

- How does your story end? How is your character feeling afterwards? What is your character doing afterwards?
