

By Lana, Viv, Morgan, and Audrey

A Dumpling's Last Mission

Once upon a time, a soup dumpling was on a mission to find a penguin because he never saw one in person.

He started to travel downhill from his cabin when a blizzrd appeared in the forrest.

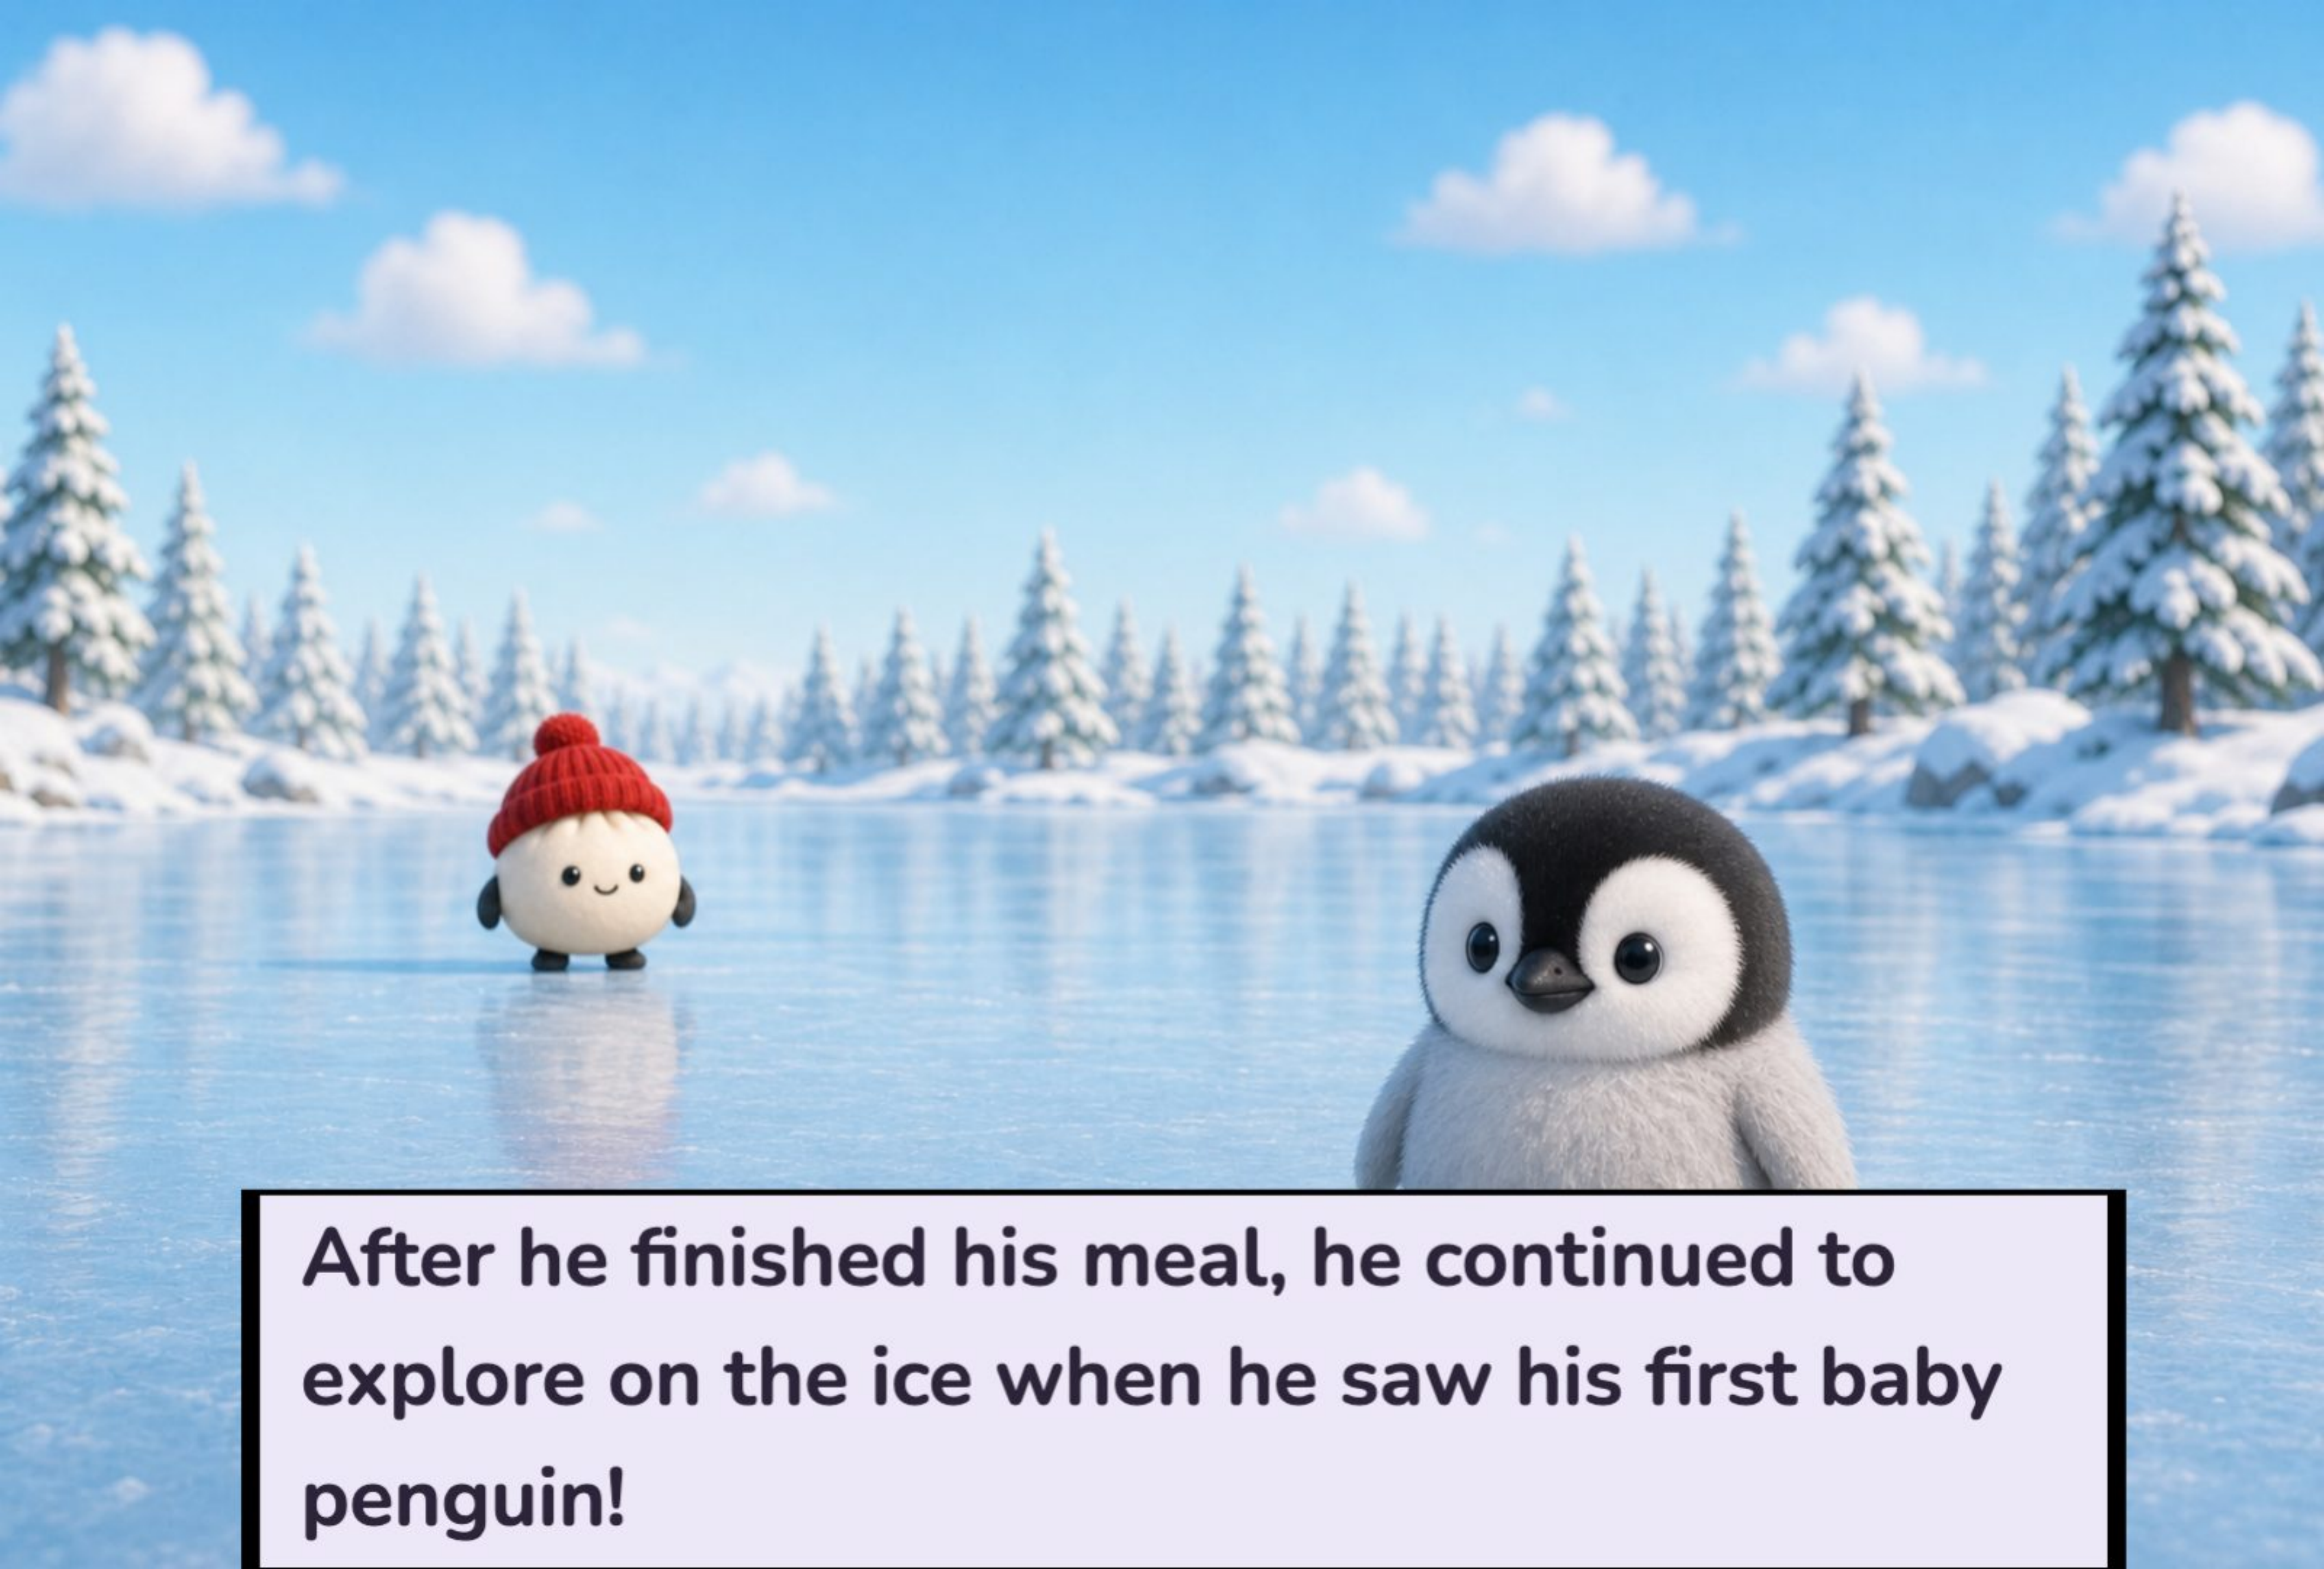

He was hungry when he found a patch of berries so he ate them.

Once the sun was setting he made a igloo to sleep in for the night.

Once it was morning he decided to continue his mission when he realized he was hungry. Luckily, a large frozen lake was right in front of him. He went fishing and found a tuna for his breakfast.

After he finished his meal, he continued to explore on the ice when he saw his first baby penguin!

The dumpling waved hi to the penguin and the mama penguin saw.

So the mama penguin ate dumpling to protect her baby.

THE END !